Discussion

A mix of snow and light freezing drizzle over the eastern Ozarks early this afternoon will end from west to east during the late afternoon into the early evening. Additional accumulations will range from one half to one inch...with a glaze of ice also possible this evening as light freezing drizzle develops.

Additional light snow will then develop over eastern Kansas this evening and spread eastward through the region overnight into early Friday. Accumulations with this second period of snow will range from two to three inches over the lake of the Ozarks region, one to two inches southward to interstate 44, and then to a half inch along the Arkansas border.

Days two through seven...Friday through Wednesday. Snow will end from west to east Friday morning. Otherwise limited or no hazardous weather is expected into the middle of next week.

Travel Issues

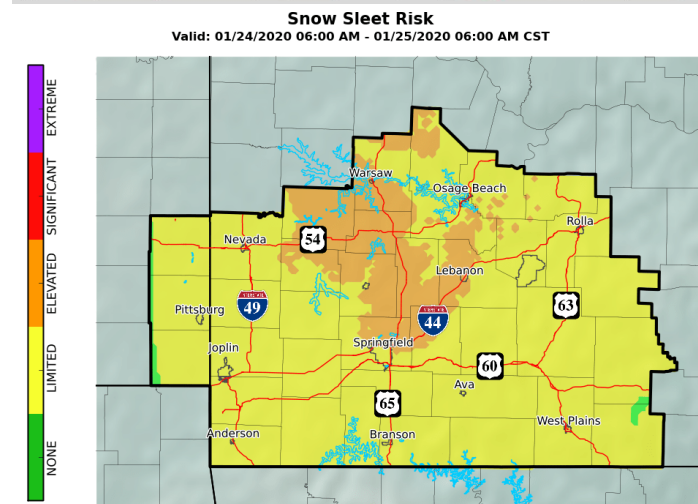

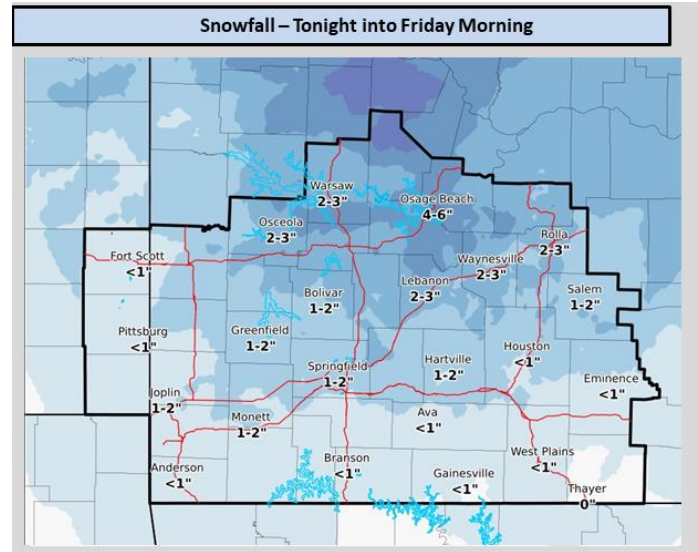

- Snow is expected between 12 am to 10 am Friday morning.
- Areas Impacted: Mainly along and north of US Highway 60
- Impacts: Slippery roads during the Friday morning commute
- Total snow accumulation for the event is expected to be approximately 1-3 inches of snow. Isolated 4 inch amount possible
