Widespread wintry weather expected late tonight into Thursday night, including potential for significant impacts. General expectations are as follows:

1. North of I-44, snow with 6" to locally heavier amounts up to 12" likely.
2. Along/south of I-44, mixture of sleet, freezing rain, and snow likely with accumulation from 0.1" up to 0.25".
3. A winter storm warning in effect from tonight into Thursday night.
4. Much colder temps expected Thursday night and Friday night.

Travel Issues

- Major travel disruptions are likely across the entire region and power outages will be possible where ice accumulation is heavier.
- Gusty winds will lead to dangerously low wind chill values
- Slick spots will be possible mainly on elevated surfaces
- Slow down and use caution while traveling.
