Discussion

Sunday into early Monday morning: A quick moving storm system will bring light snow and a wintry mix to much of the area this evening into early Monday morning. Snowfall amounts from a dusting to around an inch will occur. A light glaze of ice due to freezing rain and freezing drizzle will also be likely, especially for areas along and west of the Highway 65 corridor.

Snow and freezing rain tonight, mainly before 4:00 am. Wind chill values as low as 17. South wind 6 to 10 mph becoming southwest after midnight. Winds could gust as high as 24 mph. Chance of precipitation is 80%. Little or no ice accumulation expected. New snow accumulation of less than a half inch possible.

Monday morning: A chance of flurries and freezing drizzle between 9:00 am and 11:00 am. Increasing clouds, temperature rising to near 29 by 9:00 am, then falling to around 20 during the remainder of the day. Wind chill values as low as 9. West wind 8 to 14 mph becoming northwest in the afternoon. Winds could gust as high as 24 mph.

Travel Issues

- Roads, especially bridges and overpasses, will likely remain slick and hazardous. Plan on slippery road conditions. The hazardous conditions could impact Monday commutes (both AM and PM).
- Unseasonably cold wind chills will occur Sunday PM to Monday AM.
- Slick spots will be possible mainly on elevated surfaces
- If you must travel, keep an extra flashlight, food, and water in your vehicle in case of an emergency.
